Consumer Decision-Making in Sport

How consumers choose — and how sport fans decide differently

ARCADIA UNIVERSITY SPORT MANAGEMENT · WEEK 4 · FALL 2026

— FRAMING THE TOPIC

What Is Decision-Making?

- ♦ What is decision making?
- ♦ What is consumer decision making?
- ♦ Why do we study the decision-making process?

Decision-Making

Decision making is the study of identifying and choosing alternatives based on the values and preferences of the decision maker. Making a decision implies that there are alternative choices to be considered, and in such a case we want not only to identify as many of these alternatives as possible but to choose the one that best fits with our goals, objectives, desires, values, and so on

— APPLYING THE CONCEPT

Consumer Decision-Making

- ◆ Covers critical thinking skills related to consumers' goals, needs, wants and the effects of attitudes, advertising, information and opportunity costs on consumer behavior.

Behavioral Decision Theory

- ◆ One of the most active academic research spheres in marketing over the past decades has been behavioral decision theory.
- ◆ Behavioral decision theorists have identified many situations in which consumers make irrational choices.
- ◆ Understanding how these effects manifest in the marketplace can be crucial for marketers.
- ◆ The work of these and other scholars have also challenged predictions from economic theory and assumptions about rationality, leading to the appearance of the field of behavioral economics.
- ◆ See Table 1 (p.8) in Stankevich (2017) - one of this week's readings.
- ◆ The key models are shortly presented starting from 1960 till nowadays.
